

LU TO HOST
ROCK ART CONFERENCE

Years of exposure to northern Canada's extreme weather conditions have failed to destroy the Indian rock paintings within the area of the Canadian Shield. Reasons for the amazing endurance of these paintings and questions concerning their origin will be discussed when 10 Canadian authorities on Indian rock art meet at Lakehead University from Friday, Dec. 5 until Sunday, Dec. 7.

Ken Dawson, Director of Northern Area Studies and Assistant Professor of Anthropology at Lakehead University will host the conference which will be the first of it's kind in Canada.

Mr. John Corn r of Vernon, B.C. will give an illustrated talk to the delegates on Indian rock art on the West Coast. He has published the the only detailed work on the aboriginal rock paintings in that area.

A highlight of the conference will be a field trip to examine local Indian rock art.

Earliest studies in the field of rock paintings in the Canadian Shield area were begun in the early 1950's.

CAMPUS NOTES

The Lakehead University Christmas cards are now available in the Bookstore. The cards are priced at $1.25 per dozen and feature a line drawing of the University library.

A demonstration of a new IBM electronic composer used in the printing industry for setting type for books, journals and other printed matter will be held Tuesday, Dec. 2 from 5-9 p.m. in the AMS Council Chambers (old Board Room). Members of the University and the Lakehead communities are invited to attend.

William J. Haney, Associate Professor in Lakehead University's School of Business Administration recently delivered a paper on "Aspects of Manpower Planning" to the Ontario Professional Foresters Association Conference held at the International Holiday Inn. The paper raised some critical issues relating to personnel systems in organizations which seek effective human resource planning and career management.

Within 10 years, over 200 sites had been located and preliminary records made. By 1968 a sufficient number of qualified individuals with a demonstrated continuing interest in Shield pictography were active in the studies to make an exchange of information useful.

The central problem in the study of the Shield rock art is dating. Methods successful in other parts of the world such as Siberia seem to have little application to the Shield sites. Until these sites can be dated there is no reliable way of relating them to archaeological findings or specific cultures.

By-products of this intensive study of rock art paintings and of their weathering process could be useful in the research of building materials and post-glacial geology.

WOMEN'S VOLLEYBALL TOURNAMENT
IN FIELDHOUSE

Eight teams will compete for first place in the Women's Invitational Volleyball Tournament to be held in the Lakehead University Fieldhouse on Friday, Dec. 5 beginning at 3:30 p.m.

All three courts in the fieldhouse will be in use at once during the tournament by teams from the University and the Faculty of Education, Confederation College, and five Lakehead high schools.

Awards will be given to the first place team which will become the 1969 Lakehead University Women's Invitational Volleyball Champions, and to the second place team.

Kathy Kangas, Co-ordinator of Women's Athletics at the University reported that the tournament may become an annual event in the Fieldhouse.

Library Workshop Planned

Dan D. Sudar, Director of Lakehead University's School of Library Technology has been appointed chairman of a committee to plan a workshop dealing with Library Technicians which will be held at the University on May 8 and 9, 1970.

Other members of his committee include: Mrs. Irene Dawson, Lakehead University Library Reference Librarian; Mr. Allan Campbell, Program Consultant of the Learning Materials Program, Department of Education and Mr. Allan Pepper, Director of the Northwestern Regional Library in Fort William.

Librarians and Library Educators, Administrators and Technicians from across Canada will participate in the two-day session.

FIRST EXHIBIT OF YEAR FOR AESTHETIC SOCIETY

Artwork by 10 members of Lakehead University's Aesthetics Society will be on display in the University Centre Building from December 1-12.

A special photographic exhibit entitled "Jeremy Taylor's Private View of Montreal" will be featured in "The Gallery" (the old faculty lounge) along with oil paintings, pen and ink drawings and photographs by members of the Society. Jeremy Taylor is a well-known Montreal Photographer and his collection of 50 black-and-white photos from the Ontario Art Gallery is sponsored at the University by the Aesthetics Society, the Faculty of Arts and the AMS Arts Society.

Paintings, pottery, sculptures and photographs in the exhibit will also be displayed in the old senior lounge. A number of the pieces are for sale and interested persons may consult the art catalogue at the Aesthetic Society desk in "The Gallery" for information.

The art exhibit will be open to the public from 10 a.m. until 10 p.m. daily.

AESTHETICS SOCIETY

ART DISPLAY IN

Aesthetics Society President Barbara Williams and Sec-Treas. Clint Kuschak with a few of the paintings in the exhibit.

The Aesthetics Society was first established at Lakehead University in March 1969 prior to their first major exhibit entitled "Pulsation". Charles Sharun, a former resident of the Lakehead was the major inspiration in the group's formation. He is presently enrolled in a fine arts course at the University of Western Ontario.

The main purpose for the formation of the Aesthetics Society was to give talented Lakehead University artists an opportunity to display their work, to enable them to view the work of fellow artists and to help them learn basic and new art techniques in workshop sessions.

The Society's 200 student members are organized into four clubs for oil paintings, pen and ink drawings, pottery, literature and poetry and photography. Throughout the academic year 1969-70 they will feature smaller displays in "The Gallery" and old senior lounge. Special showings of prints from Toronto arts galleries will also take place during the year.

The old faculty lounge, now called "The Gallery" will be used as a reading room when major arts exhibits are not in progress. Its quiet atmosphere and warm colours will be changed occasionally by a revolving display of paintings by members of the group.

The Executive members of the Aesthetics Society are:

Barbara Williams. President
Peter Lenardon. Vice-President
Clint Kuschak. . . Secretary-Treasurer.

For further information on the society, telephone ext. 359 or ask in person at the Information Desk in "The Gallery".
