President's Message

I would like to welcome all students of the Faculty of Business Administration to another school year. The Lakehead University Business Association (LUBA) is ready to make 95\96 the best year yet! We have a host of events planned from resume workshops to the Year-End Formal.

Driven by our mission statement, LUBA's main role is to enrich its current members' experiences both academically and socially by offering an array of goods, services, events, and an opportunity to network with the business community. We have made some significant strides this past year, and plan to continue with LUBA's progress.

Allow me to introduce you to an enthusiastic, hard working, vital part of LUBA....your new LUBA executive council:

Mary Commisso, V.P. Human Resources
Trish McClelland, V.P. Communications
Randi Radul, V.P. Administration
Wendy Rissanen, V.P. Finance

On behalf of the executive, I would like to encourage you, as members of LUBA and students of the Faculty of Business Administration, to get involved. There are some new positions waiting to be filled on council, many volunteer opportunities for events, and plenty of seats available at general meetings. In order to serve you better, we need your input!

For the fourth year in a row, LUBA has published the Student Handbook for its membership of over 600 undergraduate business students, faculty members, and alumni... free of charge! How do we do it? Thanks to two groups of sponsors:

1) Advertisers, whose financial support covered all our printing costs, and
2) Volunteers, who graciously donated their time, ideas, and talents.

I would like to encourage all business students to patronize the businesses who have advertised in the Handbook. These businesses have taken an interest in us, so let's support them too! In addition, I would like to acknowledge the wonderful group of people whose combined effort pulled the Handbook together:

Bob Angell
Professor Archibald
Professor Cole
Dean Dadgostar
Professor Elmslie
Professor Glew
Jeff Howarth
Stan Nemec
Adam Molai
Mike Racic
Randi Radul
Wendy Rissanen
Professor Sacchetti
Arlene Smith
Morna Toderash
Mike Tomcko

On a final note, I would like to wish everyone a great year. As president of LUBA, I plan to work hard at making this a successful year, I look forward to working with a terrific council and I encourage you all to get involved!

Yours Truly,
Marianna DeAgazio

Because we are a not-for-profit organization, our ultimate success depends largely on voluntarism among our members.

By always striving to do things better, with the cooperation of our membership, volunteers, alumni, faculty, administration and business community, everyone will benefit.

- Our members will have an opportunity to participate in activities (social, academic and professional) that compliment their business studies
- Our volunteers will have an opportunity to apply and strengthen their business and life skills
- Our alumni will have an opportunity to educate our members and network with other alumni
- Our faculty and administration will have an opportunity to educate and develop relationships with our members outside of the classroom

The Faculty of Business Adminstration
Internal Guidelines for the Handling of Academic Problems

General

When a conflict or disagreement occurs between a faculty member and a student, it is in the interest of both parties, and the University, to resolve the issue as quickly as possible. In addition, the conflict should be resolved as close to the source of the problem as possible.

These guidelines are designed to address matters of academic concern. These would include course-specific issues such as grading, student attendance, marking schemes, grading systems, faculty performance, etc. Other university policies and procedures exist to address issues such as student misconduct, harassment, and external academic appeals.

Procedure

When a student encounters an issue of academic concern related to a particular course, the student should discuss the issue directly with the Professor concerned. If not resolved at that stage, the student may bring the issue to the appropriate Program Chair. If not resolved, and further appeal is requested, the issue may be brought to the Dean of the Faculty. Throughout the process, the student may approach the Student/Faculty Liaison for support, intervention and/or advice.

When the internal academic appeal process is exhausted and resolution has not been achieved, the issue may be appealed through the Dean to the Senate Academic Appeals Committee.

Accounting Designations

Students considering a professional accounting designation can satisfy the majority or all of the course requirements for their Chartered Accountant (CA), Certified Managerial Accountant (CMA), or Certified General Accountant (CGA) at Lakehead University. The following is a summary of these three designations:

Chartered Accountant (CA)

Chartered Accountancy provides a career that meets your need for continuing challenge and financial rewards, while making a positive contribution to society. For a dynamic future, think about becoming a CA. It's a profession with much to offer, including tremendous challenges within a variety of career opportunities, and a rewarding lifestyle.

All types of organizations rely upon CAs to bring specialized skills and knowledge to management issues. CA student training is second to none in its breadth and quality. As a CA, you belong to a profession that rewards your effort with a sense of accomplishment and personal pride. Canadian CAs work in all parts of the world, as public accountants in small firms or international partnerships, or as a key part of management in multinational corporations or small businesses. And, in common with all other CAs, you will enjoy the prestige of a profession that has prepared you for the demands and rewards of a challenging career.

Certified Management Accountant (CMA)

The Certified Management Accountant has assumed an increasingly important role in our fast-paced, complex and competitive contemporary business world. Today's management accounting professionals have become prime players in the charting of virtually any modern organization's future.

As the need for effective decision making grows ever more critical, the CMAs unique blend of broad-based theoretical, management and accounting knowledge plus proven operational an managerial expertise and experience are vital assets on any progressive management team.

The key element in making an informed decision is the interpretation of information. The key to insightful interpretation is the background experience, working knowledge and performance level of those performing the evaluation.

The Certified Management Accountant is well-trained to apply an in-depth understanding of advanced management practices to set the strategic direction of any organization - and well equipped to actively participate in successfully achieving its goals.

As such, the CMA professional represents a one-of-a-kind human resource - invaluable both in day-to-day operational management and for strategic and financial planning activies throughout all sectors and at all levels of business, industry and government.

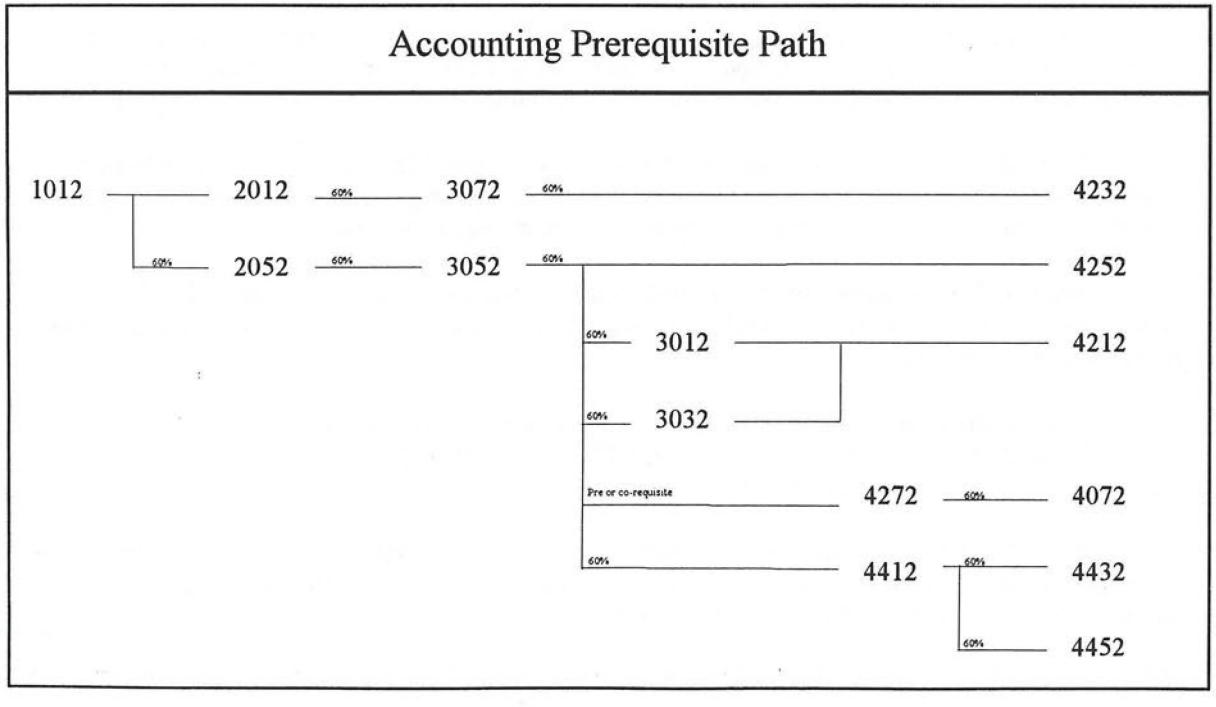

Certified General Accountant (CGA)

Combining top-notch academic and practical experience, the CGA certification process offers an excellent educational opportunity to acquire skills and knowledge needed to become an accounting professional: a CGA. The keys to the CGA program of professional studies are its flexibility and its realistic approach to the needs of today's - and tomorrow's - marketplace. Whether you are employed in industry, commerce, government, or public practice, the CGA certification process will give you the keys to unlock a challenging and rewarding future as a Certified General Accountant.

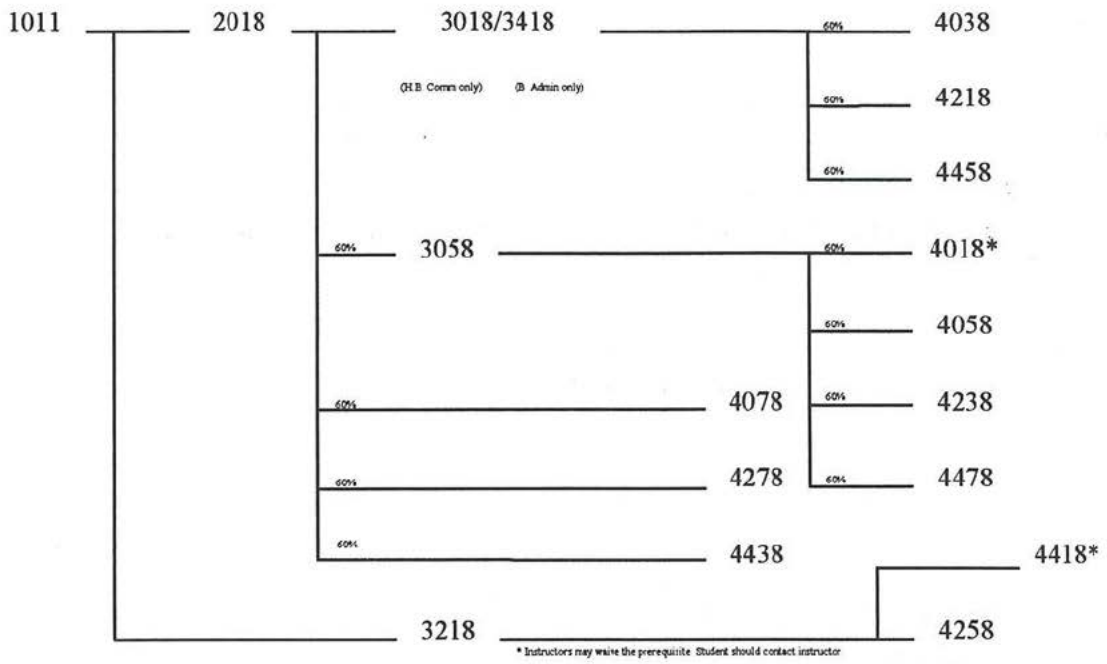

The certification process delivers a broad generalist curriculum an self-study combined with practical experience. At the senior level, you'll choose a specialty. Over the years, the program content has been refined to keep pace with the ever-expanding global marketplace.

The Association has a strong commitment to the principle of open access for students throughout Ontario. College and university graduates, mature students and people of all backgrounds are welcome to pursue certification. There is no entrance examination.

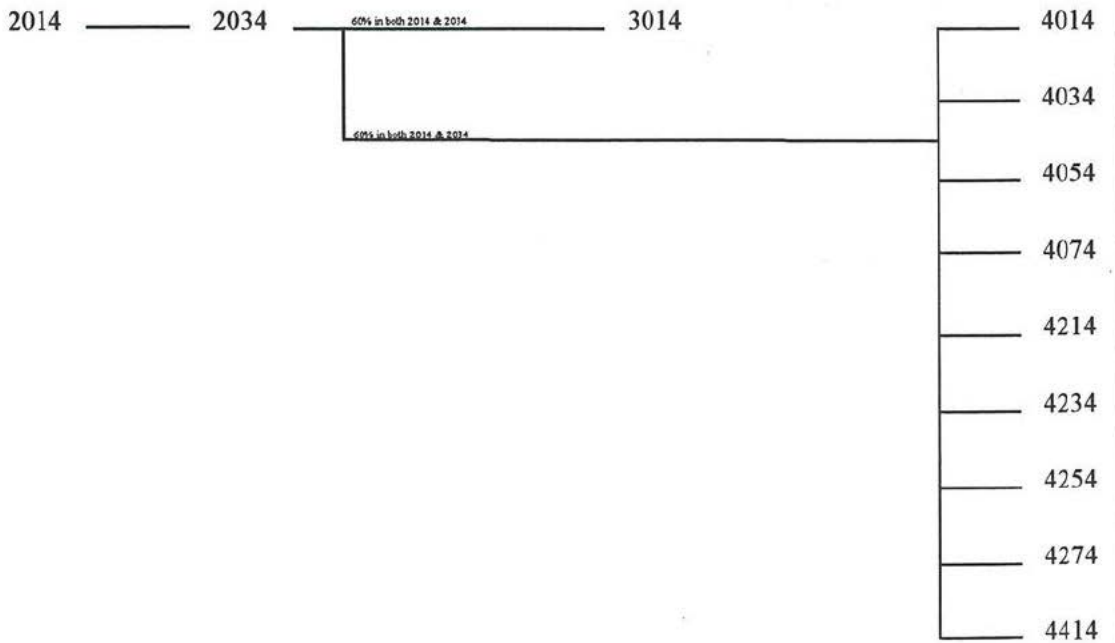

For more information about any of the three recognized accounting designations described above, contact Professor Marg Forbes at 343-8080. She is available to help you design your personal program of study towards a future in accountancy.

Intercollegiate Business Competition

Each year the brightest and best business students from across Canada compete in ICBC. Queen's ICBC is becoming the Stanley Cup of the Undergraduate Business Schools - a prize enhancing a school's reputation and igniting fierce pride among students.

Background

When ICBC originated in 1979, the aims and objectives were:

- to provide business and students alike from across Canada, with a forum for the constructive exchange of ideas and to establish relationships which endure in the future years;
- to challenge and further develop a variety of essential business skills;'
- to increase the visibility of all participating schools within the various communities - business, government and public;
- to promote, in the eyes of the public, the positive qualities of the business schools and programs; and,
- to provide an opportunity for social interaction with business students from across Canada.

ICBC is organized entirely by the Queen's ICBC Committee, a committee of Queen's Commerce students. These students serve on the Committee for one year beginning in February and like most of you, these students have full-time course loads! The Committee has substantial financial support from corporate donors such as the Financial Post and Unilever (to mention a few) and academic support from Queen's faculty who mark the Preliminary Round case submissions. However, notwithstanding this support, the Committee cannot be praised enough for having hosted this highly popular and successful event over the past 17 years!

Preliminary Round

During the preliminary round, held in September and October of each year, over 20 universities play-off to qualify for the finals by preparing a written case submission for the following.

Accounting Case	2 students
Business Policy (Strategy) Case	3 students
Finance Case (new in 1995)	2 students
Labour Arbitration Case	2 students
Management Information Systems Case	2 students
Marketing Case	2 students

Final Round

During the Final Round, held at Queen's in January, the top five teams in each area of competition compete for 1st and 2nd place. However in this round, competitors have 15 minutes to make an oral presentation to a panel of judges made up of leaders of the Canadian business community (after only 5 hours of preparation)!

There is also a debating competition introduced in the Final Round - only the top five schools overall are invited to participate in the debating.

Lakehead's Results

Lakehead has competed in ICBC since its inception in 1979 and has posted excellent results over the HB Commerce '94) placed second in the Final Round and in 1993, our Marketing team (Stacey Medwid HB Commerce '93, and Rhonda Pettigrew, HB Commerce '93) placed first in the final round!! In fact, Lakehead has placed in the top five teams overall in four of the past six years during the Preliminary Round (see chart).

Sponsorship

Our team's travel costs to Kingston can be substantial, placing considerable strain on operating funds available to the Faculty of Business Administration (especially at a time when university funding is declining). Three years ago Lakehead was fortunate enough to secure a business sponsor for its ICBC team. The chartered accounting firm KPMG Peat Marwick Thorne established an ICBC endowment fund (eventually self-supporting) to which it contributes annually.

> I would like to thank everyone who makes ICBC possible at Lakehead: the faculty at large and faculty liaisons for their assistance during the course of the competition; the firm of KPMG Pear Marwick Thorne for its generous financial sponsorship, and especially, the team members for their participation. These students' dedication to representing Lakehead's Faculty of Business Administration in its best light is something for which we should all be grateful!

Things To Know

Absences From Class

If you will be unable to attend a class, speak to the professor ahead of time when at all possible. It is also recommended that you find a fellow student to photocopy handouts from, rather than inconvenience your professor for them. In addition, be sure to catch up on all of the readings and assignments before the next class. Academic Advising.

The Faculty of Business is filled with academic advisors...your professors. They are ready and willing to help you choose the correct course and put you on the right track. Each professor has either open or scheduled office hours as well as his or her own E-mail account. Make an appointment either in person, by phone, or through E-mail with your professor to discuss your academic career. If a professor is not available, when you need counseling, contact your program chair.

Classroom Etiquette

Common courtesy towards your peers as well as your professor is expected from every student. Do not talk when others are talking, do not excuse yourself from class needlessly (to get snacks or roam the halls), and if you are having a snack do so inconspicuously. Above all, remember that respect for your processors and classmates is the key to a rewarding and enjoyable year at university.

Study Habits

One of the greatest assets you can have in university is good study habits. They can be acquired or improved upon through workshops, peer study groups, and advice from professors. As fellow students, the best advice we can give you is to learn from your mistakes, use this handbook to set aside time for studying, and most importantly don't procrastinate.

Adding/Dropping Courses

Changing you schedule and work load is a serious matter. You must remember there are deadlines for adding or dropping courses. They are as follows:

Additions:

Fall half courses	September 20
Full year courses	September 20
Winter half courses	January 11

Withdraws (without academic penalty):

Fall half courses	November 6
Full year courses	February 6
Winter half courses	February 27

In order to drop or add a course, you must fill out a form which can be picked up at the Registrar's Office. Once the form is filled out, it must be signed by your program chair and submitted to the Registrar.
