●That one-storey, yellow brick house you may have passed on Oliver Road, next to the old Lakehead University entrance, isn't quite as sedate as it might appear on the outside. It houses the University's Day-Care Centre and is usually a home - away - from - home for tens of boisterous children whose parents are University students.

The services of the Centre are particularly aimed at mothers who wish to take classes during the day and who don't have anyone to look after their young offspring. It is open every day during the week from 8 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. and is under the supervision of Mrs. Theresa Jacobs.

Children of any age are welcomed at the Centre and they are all treated to hot lunches and snacks each day. In addition, a separate rest room is set aside in the Centre for naps, if the parents of the children wish that they should have one. In between eating and sleeping, the youngsters can exercise their artistic talents in many ways, play games both indoors and outside the building or just do their own thing, under supervision by the Day-Care staff. Their parents are charged a very modest monthly fee for this service.

The Centre has been in operation for about three months now and most of the toys which were originally donated to it have had a fairly good workout since then.

"We are desperately in need of new toys (second-hand will do) and play equipment," said Mrs. Jacobs, "and now that summer is here we would like to have a couple of inflatable swimming pools for the children."

Anyone who would like to donate these materials or some of their time to the Centre may contact Mrs. Jacobs at the University, Extension 431.

A MESSAGE TO SUMMER SESSION STUDENTS

●Welcome to our 11th Summer Session. As you will observe, we not only have expanded facilities, but also expanded student enrolment. Including those people registered in the Secondary School Teachers' course, some 1,700 students will be on campus this summer.

The summer program is designed, as much as possible, with the needs and interests of part-time students in mind. However, occasionally these can only be guessed at, and we hope they will be more clearly articulated either through representatives from the Summer Session Committee or by individual comments to me personally.

I would like to meet with one special group of students - those who will register in the winter off-campus program who are on campus this summer. Would these people plan to meet with me on Monday, July 6 at 4:00 p.m. in room 1029.

K. L. Morrison,
Director of Extension and Summer Session

●This edition of LU WEEK is dedicated to some of the various University services which will be available to summer session students this year. News of future University activities will be published in this news bulletin every other week during July and August. The next LU WEEK will be available on July 3, 1970.

●Our photographer recently paid a visit to the Day-Care Centre and decided to observe the children at play first before taking any photographs. When he finally got his camera ready to shoot, these four moppet-heads appeared out of the woodwork and posed themselves for the above picture.

●An information centre for counselling and reference services on birth control and venereal disease has been set up at Lakehead University by the Women's Liberation in co-operation with the Academics Department of the Alma Mater Society.

The organizers of the centre felt that there was a need to establish a service of this kind because there is no family planning or birth control information centre for the public in Thunder Bay. Therefore, the purpose of this centre is to educate local citizens on these two vital subjects as well as provide a direct link between the public and medical advisors and other authorized areas of assistance.

Books, pamphlets and other up-to-date information on birth control and venereal disease are available in the growing library of the centre which is located in Room 109 of the University Centre Building. Suggestions for new reading materials are welcomed.

You are invited to drop by the centre for information or "just to rap."

●A program in drug education will operate at Lakehead University this summer from July 1 until August 15 in conjunction with both the Free North Festival (which anyone may attend free of charge) and the Drug Information Centre.

The co-ordinators of the program stated that: "factual presentations about the use of drugs will be given by doctors, social workers, lawyers, sociologists, and others. The final decision concerning the use is left with the individual. It is hoped that he or she will be able to make a more intelligent, logical decision based on the socio-medical facts presented, rather than on rumor and imagination."

"No instructor or resource person will encourage the illegal or thrill-seeking use of drugs," they continued, "but he will not moralize against it either. Discussion groups will be conducted by young adults, most of whom have had some experience with drugs."

All drug education programs are, at present, experiments. It is hoped that this experiment will prove a working basis for further programs of a similar nature.

If you would like any further information, contact Garth Pentney at 344-0518 or the Drug Information Centre at Lakehead University.

●Through rain and snow, blowing sand and construction, the University's Grounds Department forges on.

Under the expert guidance of Bert Sitch, Supervisor of Grounds, the department has been making many noticeable changes in the physical appearance of the campus. To make room for new parking lots, for example, they are presently transferring 5,000 square yards of turf from the area east of the library to other grounds west of the Centennial Building and south of the shopping mall.

In addition, hundreds of new bedding plants and shrubs are being planted on the campus this year. This includes 150 deciduous shrubs (12 varieties, plus 8 varieties of roses); 118 coniferous shrubs (9 varieties); and 6,600 annual bedding plants (15 different varieties in various colors and shades.)

Mr. Sitch and his crew are now charged with the demanding chore of maintaining the 24 acres of lawn and gardens within the three-quarter mile-long campus area lying between the golf course and the Faculty of Education Building. Another 19 acres of land should also be under maintenance in September.

"The Grounds Department appreciates the efforts of all who use the campus, in keeping our grounds neat and clean," commented Mr. Sitch and he continued, "real attractive grounds take time, and beauty is something that comes only with maturity."

...or whatever exercise you like best can be done in the University's Athletic Building this summer.

Gym facilities in the building will be available from 9 a.m. until 9 p.m. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays and also 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays. Everyone is welcome to stop in and shape up, or down, whatever the case may be.

If you want to set up your own physical fitness program or have one of the Athletic Department experts prescribe one especially for you, there are various pieces of equipment which will be at your disposal. Perhaps a few games of badminton, tennis or volleyball is all you need to keep in shape. Or you may want to tackle a daily 15-minute workout on "The Gladiator" a sturdy structure of stainless steel which can hold more than a dozen people at one time. If you only want to jog a bit between classes, you're welcome to drop into the Athletic Building any time during the week. Gym clothes will be supplied. . . the rest is up to you.

In case you only enjoy spectator sports. . . as a spectator. . . the University's fastball team plays two and three times a week at St. Martin's Diamond in Thunder Bay, North. And there is usually a game or two underway on the tennis courts next to the women's residence buildings or the squash courts in the main building if you'd care to idle away a few precious summer moments in quiet observation.

For those who prefer quieter sports still, there's plenty of opportunity for girl watching, gardner watching, construction watching or other miscellaneous "watching" projects available at the university every day.

●L.U.
