Arctic Is Topic

Friday, March 12, the Royal Canadian Geographical Society is sponsoring the visit of Lt. Col. P. D. Baird to Lakehead University. Lt. Col. Baird will give an illustrated lecture entitled "Planting the Flag North", an assessment of Canadian Claims of sovereignty in the Arctic. Colonel Baird started his work in the north with special studies on Baffin Island before World War II. Just following the War, he was the leader of Canadian Army Exercise Musk-Ox which travelled in snowmobiles from Churchill to Coppermine across the barrens, and from there down to Fort Smith on the Mackenzie. He then joined the Arctic Institute, left to do further studies and to join the Geography Department at McGill University and has returned to the Arctic Institute as a leader of special projects. As the subject of the talk implies, he will be speaking about what Canada has done to make the Canadian presence felt in the Arctic over the years, and will have some views to present about our future responsibilities in that area. This is a highly topical subject in view of the possibilities of oil transport in the Arctic endangering ecology and the life style of its residents. The lecture will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the Upper Lecture Theatre and tickets (free of charge) may be obtained in advance from Miss E. Wear or Dr. Phillips of the Geography Department.

During the afternoon, Lt. Col. Baird will be taking part in an informal seminar, beginning at 2:00 p.m. in Room CB1024, to which all interested students, faculty and members of the public are welcome.

Debate Postponed

The debate between John Bulloch, President of the Canadian Council for Fair Taxation and Dr. K. J. Charles, Chairman of the Department of Economics on the Effects of the White Paper on Taxation on the Canadian Economy, scheduled for March 3rd., has been postponed until Wednesday, March 17th. The time and place to be announced at a later date. This is necessary because Mr. Bulloch is unable to attend at that time because of personal reasons.

The Economics Club and the Business Club, co-sponsors of the debate regret any inconvenience this postponement may have caused anyone.

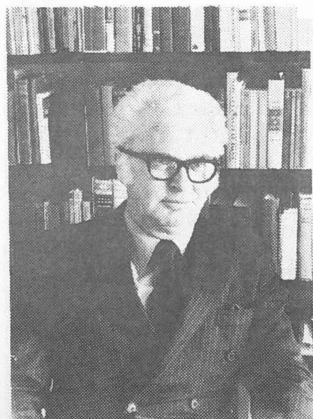

Carpenter Cancelled

The public presentation that was to have been sponsored jointly by Confederation College and Lakehead University with Astronaut Scott Carpenter had to be cancelled due to schedule difficulties. We were informed that Carpenter would be unable to arrive in Thunder Bay until Saturday, and his schedule for the time during which he would be in Thunder Bay did not allow a suitable time for such a presentation. Mr. Carpenter will be here to take part in auto racing sponsored by the Thunder Bay Sports Car Club and the Jaycees.

Guest Professor In Germany

Gordon D. McLeod, an Assistant Professor in the Department of English and Director of Residence at Lakehead University has been appointed for a three month period this summer as a Guest Professor at the University of Marburg in Germany to introduce the study of Canadian Literature in that university. The appointment has been made with the assistance of the Kultusministerium of the German Department of External Affairs of the Canadian Government.

The University library at Marburg received some time ago an excellent collection of Canadian books made possible by a private endowment which the Canadian Embassy at Bonn supplemented with a fairly large book presentation in 1969. This created an interest at the University of Marburg in introducing a program of Canadian Studies. The appointment of Professor McLeod with the rank of a full Professor for the three month period is the first step in opening up such a program.

Professor McLeod has for some years been involved in research in the field of Canadian Literature. He graduated from the University of Toronto with a Bachelor of Arts degree and later from the University of Manitoba with a Master of Arts degree in the field of Canadian Literature. His M.A. thesis subject was "The Primeval Element in the Prairie Novels of Frederick Philip Grove." At the present time Mr. McLeod is completing the requirements at the University of Manitoba for the Ph.D. degree in English, again in the field of Canadian Literature. He is writing his thesis on the subject "The Theme of Regeneration in Canadian Prairie Fiction". He hopes to have the requirements for this degree completed by the spring of 1972.

"J.B." Cambrian Play

"J.B.", the Pulitzer Prize play of 1959 by Archibald MacLeish, will be performed by the Cambrian Players at the University Centre Theatre at 8:30 p.m. on March 11th, 12th and 13th. Described as 'a play for our times', "J.B." is a modern version of the biblical story of Job, the just and upright man who patiently accepted all the trials and sufferings imposed upon him. The J.B. of the play is a prosperous, happily-married family man living a decent life and grateful for God's goodness to him.

Director Elizabeth Marshal works with Jack Scoffield as 'J.B.'

Disasters strike? he loses his wealth, his children die, his wife leaves him, and J.B. is alone. He feels he must be guilty to have done something; to deserve such suffering. If, as the strange and uncomfortable Comforters assure him, he is not guilty, where is justice in this world?

J.B.'s appeal has an immediate poignancy and relevance for the modern age, in which human suffering seems to have been more brutal, more senseless than ever before. If there is a Creator, how can he be considered just? As the Satan of the play puts it, "If God is God, he is not good. If God is good he is not God..."

MacLeish's dramatic presentation of this fundamental dilemma of our age is set in the form of a play within a play; two out-of-work actors elect to play God and Satan; and as J.B. and his family play out their tragedy, Mr. Zuss (God) and Nickles (Satan) circle and taunt, and drive home the point that there is no justice in the universe. Finally J.B. himself, while realizing that he can get no answer from God, discovers the one redeeming feature of life on this earth. "What suffers, loves. And love will live its suffering again ... and still live ... and still love."

Your Help For LU Week

To make LU Week do the job it is intended to do, namely bringing items of interest about the University and the happenings of the University to the faculty, staff, students and interested residents in and around Thunder Bay, we would appreciate your assistance in helping us to make it relevant and newsworthy. The new design was formulated to allow for feature articles on aspects of University life that are not generally known to the total institution or to the public. Some two thousand copies are printed weekly and distributed to all news media, to civic officials, to all high schools in the District, to service agencies and many others including citizens who request to be on the mailing list. Information appearing in the LU Week is also used as the basis for the Wednesday television, University Spotlight - Information Branch, which appears at 6:15 p.m. To accommodate this program time which is given to the University by CKPR-TV, the deadline for LU Week has been moved up to Tuesdays at 5:00 p.m. Departments, schools and clubs wishing to have an event publicized through these means are asked to make note of this change.

We would ask you to let us know about any events, meetings or other happenings around the University in order that we may properly inform people who might wish to take part. We would also appreciate suggestions as to facets of the University which you feel might be of interest as feature items, or which you would like to know more about. Anyone with any thoughts in this area is asked to contact the Information Office, Room UC1003 or phone Extension 300. Let us know what YOU would like to read in LU Week.
